FOUR CHILDREN ARE BURNED TO DEATH

THREE DIE WHEN OIL EXPLODES; INFANT KILLED BY BLAST

Coal Oil Blamed For Both Tragedies—Babe, Expected To Die

Cincinnati, April 13.—Three children were burned to death and their mother seriously injured Sunday when coal oil used by one of the little ones preparatory to building a fire and boiling Easter eggs at their home near Miamitown, O., exploded.

Raymond Holden, 11, who built the fire and his sisters, Emma, 12, and Jane Holden, 3, are dead.

Mrs. Alice Holden 34, the mother, tried to save the baby from the burning house but failed.

Lima, O., April 13.—One child was burned to death and another perhaps fatally injured when a coal oil lamp exploded in the home of John Mamp shortly after nine o'clock this morning.

Albert, aged 16 months, was dead when firemen reached him after they had battled their way through the flames. Harry, aged four, escaped from the house when the explosion occurred.

Mrs. Irene Thomas, a neighbor, smashed in a window with her hands and pulled Francis, aged five months, from the fire.

The child is not expected to live.

Mrs. Mamp was away at the time, having stepped to a corner store. It is thought that one of the children knocked the lamp over causing it to explode.

NAME OF HENRY FORD IS CARRIED INTO AIR AS AIR ROUTE STARTS

"Maiden Dearborn" Is Off On Initial Trip To Chicago Carrying Ford Parts

Detroit, April 13.—Henry Ford, owner of the world's largest automobile plant, a railroad line and recently the purchaser of a fleet of steamships, had his name carried into the air today.

At 9:22 a. m. the "Maiden Dearborn," one of a proposed fleet of planes that will establish aerial communication between Ford's Dearborn plant and assembly factories located in other cities, hopped off from the Ford airport at Dearborn on its first voyage to Chicago.

The "Maiden Dearborn" carried light automobile parts for Chicago and Ford plant mail, weighing approximately one thousand pounds. The plane was expected to reach the Maywood air field in Chicago in three hours. Later the time is expected to be cut down to about two hours.

Leaving Chicago in the afternoon, the plane, carrying another cargo of one thousand pounds, will return to the Ford airport here where it is scheduled to arrive about 5:30 p. m.

The airplane was designed and manufactured in Detroit. Another ship of the same type is near completion and is expected to be placed in the Ford interplant service.

The ships have a capacity of 2,000 pounds and a maximum speed of 116 miles an hour.

DAYTON DETECTIVES HERE IN EFFORT TO FIND SAFE ROBBERS

Detective L. J. Janning and Homer Rohlf, of the Dayton police department were in Xenia Monday for the purpose of linking three alleged eggers with Dayton safe robbers and tracing the missing man in the rooming house episode here last Friday night.

Columbus officers assisted by local police arrested Mr. and Mrs. Frank Puckett at an East Second Street rooming house Friday night, but another man, alleged to be in connection with twenty-four safe blowing jobs in Columbus, had absented himself a short time before the raid.

Earl Kelly and Frank and William Puckett all of Dayton, were arrested on clues furnished by Detectives Rohlf and Janning in Columbus and Xenia are said to have confessed to committing twenty-four safe robberies in Columbus since January 1.

Columbus and Dayton authorities and Xenia police are now seeking another member of the alleged gang.

Dayton detectives are investigating information that George Puckett, a brother of Dayton, committed to the Dayton Workhouse last week by local police on a charge of drunk and driving an auto while intoxicated, may have been implicated in the robbery.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Puckett as well as a third alleged confederate had been a rooming in Xenia for more than two weeks. The missing man owned a Ford car which he kept at Swigard's garage, it is said.

BELIEVE DOUBLE TRAGEDY SUICIDE-MURDER

Daughter Defends Woman Accused Of Poisoning

BY SONIA LEE

Gary, Indiana, April 13.—Unequivocally declaring the innocence of her mother, Anna Cunningham, who is ill in the Cook County Hospital, she said that she had undergone relative to the death of her husband and four children, Mae Cunningham, 18, today was to take her place at the bedside of the woman whom she claims immune from guilt.

With none of the counterpoints of grief, with only the practicality of the emotional, she sat in a leather rocker in the low-ceilinged parlor of the house on Buchanan Street and cited chapter and verse of the experiences of the Cunningham family, which would perhaps dispel the doubt surrounding the death of five of its members.

"Relatives," she begins, "are to blame for starting suspicion and for the present condition of my mother. I was too little to know just exactly what was the matter with my father when he died. We were living on the farm then and mother and father cared a great deal for each other. They didn't visit around at the neighbors a lot, because when they had a little time, they'd go to Valparaiso. Here then began the first stories that my parents were queer. In the country if one doesn't visit one is queer." When father died we moved to Gary—that was six years ago. Two years later, my sister, Isabell, then 20, died after an illness of about three weeks. She and Walter, 10, who died last and David, who is now sick at the Columbus Hospital suffered from the same disease.

"They had some kind of a bone disease which the doctor treated by injections in the spine. The attending physician, Dr. Watts, who had been the family doctor for four years, said that the disease was hereditary and that it came from my father's side.

"Then my father's sister, Mrs. Robert Arnold, resented this, and she always talked about it. She knows what was the matter with Isabel and Walter and what's the matter with David. She knows my mother isn't to blame. But she's always made things hard for us after every death when mother was in mourning, she'd come and wonder if they couldn't have been saved if more had been done for them.

"It used to drive my mother half crazy. Right after Isabell's death, mother began having spells, due to an upset system. She became a little odd, and when she had spells she didn't know anyone but me. But whoever says she was dangerous lies.

"People have been telling so many lies. They say that mother didn't want David to go to the hospital. As a matter of fact, she insisted for a whole week that he do so, but he's so bashful that he objected until the pain became too severe.

"Others have accused mother of not calling a doctor. Why we never had so much as a sick headache without mother calling in the doctor.

"Mother poison her children? That's foolish. When she was sick I was with her every minute.

"And when she was well she would not have done a thing like that I know. She's my mother.

"She might as well be accused of murder," she continued her tale in that flat monotone of hopelessness.

"I helped mother prepare meals and I put up lunches for David when mother was in bed. So it is not arsenic. Up to about six weeks ago, as far as I know, we've never had a bit of it in the house. On the farm, Dad uses it to sprinkle the trees with it and used it for killing rats.

"But all the time we were in Gary, up to just recently, we never used it. Mother sent me down to get something for the rats and the druggist, Mr. Hall wouldn't sell me arsenic, but gave me something else. But if I didn't do any good and I went down the street and bought a little box for twenty-five cents. I bought another box of it later on and we kept it on top of a cabinet, so no one could get into it. I helped mother dissolve it in water and then placed it in the basement.

"Mother has been much better the last month but there was little that she did without me. I did most of the shopping and helped get supper when I came home from work. So if mother had bought arsenic, I would have known it, I think."

Legislative leaders believe the opposition to the Bill will meet to a great extent when backers of the measure begin their final battle to put it through the senate. They control more than a majority of the senate and have openly threatened to confirm the governor's appointments against the wishes of Republican leaders if the bill is not passed.

The legislature must also decide whether to pass the Brown gasoline tax bill, tax relief measures, and other bills which the governor has vetoed or will veto before the session is resumed. The governor on Thursday will finish consideration of the 150 bills which the legislature left with him when it recessed.

There have been rumors that legislative leaders might adopt a plan of recessing the legislature from week to week throughout the remainder of the year but it was said this course would not be likely to be adopted, unless the senate fails to take action on the governor's appointments.

reply to the executives' sally until later in the month.

The governor is expected to make a spirited fight for approval of his appointments, especially the two utility commissioners, as this would give his appointees control of the commission.

Interpreted by political leaders here, this would give the governor a tremendous advantage in what is expected to be his campaign for a third term. The odds are believed to be strongly against confirmation of any of the four appointments.

At 10 o'clock, grave diggers will exhume the body from the cemetery near Wheeler, Indiana, with Coroner Wolff of Chicago, Coroner A. O. Dobbin of Porter County, Gary and Indiana states attorneys and Mae, as official witnesses.

All lines of investigation in to the deaths today rested on the disappearance of the body of Walter Cunningham, aged ten, the last of the five victims.

The general appropriation bill, now before the governor, carries an appropriation of $700,000 for destruction of cattle condemned after tuberculin tests and for expenses of condemnation outside the employment of experts. The governor is expected to recommend the appropriation be increased to $1,000,000.

The measure provides that when a majority of owners representing 75 per cent of the cattle population of a township applies for the test the area may be placed under quarantine and no meat or milk shipped outside except such as is derived from cattle passing the test. The measure also provides that after 90 per cent of the cattle in a given area are tested, the testing of the remainder can be required.

Other bills signed by the governor include:

By Marshall, Cuyahoga, clarifying the statute relating to foreign wills.

By Marshall, Greene, more clearly defining liabilities of warehouse-men.

By Hadden, Cuyahoga, permitting guardians to make 99 year leases of property under their care.

By Bartlett, Geauga, repealing present provision of law that directors of cooperative marketing associations are liable for losses, and making them liable only as stockholders.

By Williams, Fayette, including among commercial foodstuffs subject to state regulation.

By Riggs, Gallia, permitting guardians to make 99 year leases of property under their care.

The flight to Honolulu will be attempted as a full scale test of planes developed by naval engineers. The plans used will be of the long distance patrol type, developed for overseas scouting operations from a land base. They are called the air cruisers" of the navy.

The ships will take off from either San Francisco or San Diego. They will be shipped to the latter city the last of this month for assembly and test.

The planes are known as the PN-9s and are bi-motored. They carry normally a crew of five men and when fully loaded weigh approximately 18,125 pounds, or slightly over nine tons, of which fifty per cent is "useful load."

The engines are Packard built and are rated at 475 horsepower, but actually develop in excess of 500, giving a maximum speed of 117 miles an hour and a cruising speed of eighty miles an hour.

The construction of the PN-9 is a combination of wood, metal and fabric. The wings are of wood and fabric and the boat hull is entirely of steel.

Marshall Warehousemen Liability Bill Among Those That Are Signed

Columbus, April 13.—Governor Donahoe today signed the Riggs bill, providing for tuberculin testing of cattle under the township area plan.

QUALITIES ENGINEERING STUDENTS NEED OUTLINED AT MEETING AT ANTIOCH COLLEGE

More faith in humanity, a greater love for their fellow beings, ability to think straight, inclination to talk less, and willingness to work hard are a few of the qualities set forth as most needed by modern engineering students by Dean A. A. Potter of Purdue University, president of the Society for Promotion of Engineering Education, at the annual conference of the Ohio Section of the Society held at Antioch College Saturday.

Scientific men representing seven institutions throughout the state spoke in morning and afternoon sessions to delegates assembled at Yellow Springs at the invitation of Antioch College. Problems in engineering education were discussed following each address. The delegates, welcomed in opening addresses by President Arthur E. Morgan and Dean Philip C. Nash, of Antioch, were present throughout the day, and were the guests of the college and student body at a picnic luncheon near the yellow spring in the Antioch Glen.

Dean Potter in opening the afternoon session at 2 o'clock, outlined tendencies in engineering education. He was followed by H. P. Hammond, Associate Director of Investigation for the Society, who spoke on the problems encountered in attempting an analysis of causes of failure among engineering students.

On the morning program Professor William T. Magruder, of Ohio State University, compared engineering-student material today with that of ten years ago. A discussion, following his talk was led by Dean Herman Schneider, of the University of Cincinnati; Professor A. C. Swinnerton of Antioch College; and Professor F. M. Comstock and Dean T. M. Focke of the Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland.

Other morning speakers were Professor E. S. Smith of Cincinnati, who as a result of a recent investigation, conducted by him, spoke of the increasing demand of schools upon the students' time; and Prof. W. L. Evans, of Ohio State, whose subject was the teaching of chemistry to Freshman. Discussion on these addresses was led by Dean Fred E. Ayer, of the University of Akron, and Professor W. R. Veazey, of the Case School.

That engineering schools commonly graduate only one-half of their entering freshman and that many fall by the wayside thru poor health or lack of interest was cited by President A. A. Potter as a fact worthy of close study.

"Failure on the part of the student to grasp a subject should not always be laid at his door," said Dr. Potter, "and more attention should be given to the causes of failure."

According to the diagnostic study of impending failures being carried on by the S. P. E. E. in cooperation with engineering colleges of the country, much student lack of interest is due to overcrowded curricula or to the too great similarity of the elementary college courses and high school courses. This must be corrected by a better selection of the subject to be offered, and by giving the college student more immediate contact with the practical problems he is to face.

High school teachers, says Dr. Potter, must be more familiar with the scope of the engineering college, since the increasing vocational work of the schools is resulting in poorer preparation for the higher institutions.

Many qualities not often thought of in connection with engineering students were declared by President Potter to be essential if the latter are really to succeed. Among these are intelligence to express themselves clearly and logically, and the desire for inventiveness, for trying new paths thru creative thought.

Recognition of successful students thru newspaper publicity was cited as a possible means of encouragement and stimulation of scholarship.

An engineer of the highest possible efficiency and capability will suffer in community standing unless his character is also high, Dr. Potter believes.

Good codes of business ethics can never be developed in students by occasional lectures on the subject.

The men must come into association with teachers who embody in their own lives the sterling qualities of character they seek to impart.

The engineering student needs an understanding of true citizenship; a spirit of toleration for the rights of others, and an appreciation of other governments, as well as a realization of the many exceptional opportunities afforded to Americans.

"The public esteem for engineering will grow," asserted Dr. Potter, "if we strive to develop engineers who have outstanding qualities of character, superior personalities, and who are capable of rendering unselfish service to society."

President Potter led the discussion following the address by H. P. Hammond, the S. P. E. E. Associate Director of Investigation, on problems of investigation in the engineering-educational field. Mr. Hammond, who is Professor of Sanitary and Hydraulics Engineering at the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, has lately collected a considerable amount of material and information regarding the engineering student; his antecedents and preparation—and also regarding the admission and selection process.

Representing Antioch College, Professor Horace B. English outlined a course in scientific methods as the most effective preparation for students intending to devote themselves to research work. Professor J. R. Withrow of Ohio State led the discussion.

Professor Robert Meiklejohn, also of Ohio State, concluded the afternoon program with an exposition of the mechanical drawing factor in engineering education. Discussion was led by Professor C. W. Thomas, of the Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland.

Mingling with the whole Antioch Student body and faculty on the mound which the yellow spring has been building in "Antioch Glen" ever since the time of the glaciers, the delegates enjoyed a real picnic lunch and social intermission lasting over an hour and a half between the sessions of the convention.

POSTMASTER MAKES HIS INSPECTION OF RURAL MAIL ROUTES

Postmaster C. S. Frazer announced Saturday that he is conducting the semi-annual inspection of the ten rural postal mail routes in the county. One inspection is made in April and October of each year.

The inspection is devoted entirely to the condition of rural mail boxes, a number of which are usually improperly placed and others which are in poor condition and do not measure up to regulation postal standards.

Postmaster Frazer has inspected boxes on three routes during the past week and expects to complete his work in less than ten days visiting one route each day. He advises all rural residents who have mail boxes in poor condition to either repair the old ones or obtain new boxes.

Each box should be painted white with the name of the owner printed in prominent black letters, as required by the postal department.

MODISH MITZI—The Question Is, Who is He?

By JAY V. JAY

Dad is just dashing off on a two week's business trip and is being escorted in the most approved domestic fashion to the front door. You can catch just a glimpse of Mitzi's striped cotton broadcloth morning dress with raglan sleeves and a turned back collar.

How perplexing that a cablegram should arrive for Dad just after he has left. Plainly it is Mitzi's duty to open and read it before forwarding it because it might be important. Not so important possibly, though as the fact that Aunt Sophia's morning dress is of polka dot voile.

Well, who is Alan anyway? Is it his first or last name? Is this business? Or has Dad been expecting some friend? It's safe to say that never will a cablegram be relayed on to its ultimate destination faster than this cablegram will be—and with it a demand from Mitzi for information.

Polly is called into consultation, too. She is quite baffled. The matter is not nearly so simple as her new morning dress of blue kashmir. It is complex—more complex than the geometrical pattern of Mitzi's new house frock of printed voile. Only Father Time can tell. Will he?

CLERKS INSTRUCTED ABOUT NEW POSTAL RATES TO BE USED

Instructions are being given clerks in the Xenia postoffice relative to the new postal rates which will become effective Wednesday, Postmaster C. S. Frazer declared Monday.

The new rates occasioned by the passage of the recent postal bill will be effective in practically every branch of the service.

The new one and one half cent stamp resembles the four cent stamp, being light brown in color and bearing the same photograph of the Warren Harding memorial stamp issued after his death. This stamp will be used on all merchandise, books and circulars of less than eight ounces in weight.

Another new stamp, a fractional cent stamp of one-half cent denomination will be used on the old supply of envelopes which now carry the one cent stamp. It carries the picture of Nathan Hale.

Mailing of postcards will cost two cents instead of one cent when the new law becomes effective and a two-cent service charge will be made on parcel post packages excepting rural route, which packages must bear the words "Rural Route."

A provision is also made for a new twenty-five cent special handling stamp for fragile articles and first-class mail. This stamp carries the figure "25" and is marked "Special Handling."

NEW STAMP READY FOR CHANGE IN RATE

A supply of one and one half cent postage stamps to be placed in use April 15, when the postal rate laws, passed by Congress and approved by President Coolidge, become effective have been received at the Xenia Postoffice, according to Postmaster C. S. Frazer. A supply of proper envelopes also has been received, he says.

These stamps will be used on third class matter and circulars under the new postal regulations.

Stamps of one-half cent denomination will be received at the postoffice within several days. These stamps will be placed on all stamped one-cent envelopes for third class matter.

MRS. MEREDITH HOSTESS AT CHARMING MUSICALE

The Dayton Woman's Club was the scene of a delightful entertainment Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. Mary M. Meredith afforded her guests the opportunity of hearing an unusually charming program given by her brother, Mr. Edmund Munger of the Conservatory of the College of Bloomington, Ill., and Mrs. Lo Rean Hodapp, soprano soloist of the Westminster choir of Dayton.

Mrs. Meredith received her guests with Mrs. W. J. Cherry and Mrs. Mary Little Dice and they were ushered at once into the tea-room of the club where the program was given.

Mr. Munger, whose playing has given his friends much pleasure on previous occasions and who is always welcomed by them, presented the first number which consisted of two movements—the Andantino and the Vivacissimo—of the Sonata in E Major by Sibelius and he prefaced his performance with a few remarks on the composer, the one outstanding musical genius as yet produced by Finland. He spoke of the melancholy always so characteristic of the northern races which is so noticeable in the works of this composer and which was so feelingly portrayed by the performer.

Mr. Munger also presented a group of Chopin numbers—the lovely Ballade in A flat major, two Preludes, the one in E minor and the one in F sharp minor, the F major Etude and the C sharp minor Nocturne. The pianist appeared at his best in these numbers, the beautiful melodious Ballade and the lovely rippling Etude being particular favorites with the audience. His third and last group consisted of the "Guitarra," by Moszkowski which he played with great spirit; the lovely, ethereal "Swan" by Palmgren, another Finnish composer; the picturesque "Gardens in the Rain" by Debussy and a Scherzo-Valse by Chabrier, which is very modern in spirit. Mr. Munger's hearers expressed their appreciation enthusiastically and he responded with two lovely encores, the Fourth or Venetian Barcarolle by Godard and the "Song of the Traveller" by Paderewski.

Mrs. Hodapp presented three groups of songs, the one consisting of four German numbers "Auf dem Wasser zu Singen"—by Shubert, "Der Schmetterling ist in die Rose Verliebt" and "Ach, Wenn Ich doch ein Immlchen war" both by Franz and "Erstes Begegnen" by Grieg. The second group consisted of a single number "Caro Nome" by Verdi and the third Handel's "O, Sleep, Why Dost Thou Leave Me," "The Little Damozel" by Novello, "Lilacs" by Emma Jean Davidson and "The Rhapsody" by Warford.

Possessed of a lyric soprano voice of rare loveliness, Mrs. Hodapp captivated her audience with her first number and won their increasing enthusiasm with the rest of her program. Her voice is flawless in pitch with an angelic sweetness of quality which is accentuated by the perfect ease with which she sings. The light, floating quality of her tones was especially apparent in the encore with which she followed her artistic rendering of the Aria from Rigoletto—"The Bird" by Fiske. This number displayed the exquisite delicacy of her voice to perfection and was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Hodapp sings with an almost perfect diction which adds much to the pleasure of her hearers as does her sweet and gracious manner. Miss Vivian Tripp was the accompanist of the afternoon and she made a large contribution to the program by the sympathetic manner in which she interpreted the singer's moods.

At the close of the program a delicious refreshment course was served.

HANDSOME RECEPTION AT TONKINSON HOME

Quantities of fragrant and delicate tinted Spring flowers were used as a charming decorating scheme when Mrs. A. M. Tonkinson and Mrs. R. C. Ledbetter, received thirty-five guests at the Tonkinson home on the Springfield Pike Saturday afternoon.

Bowls of pansies and daffodils were used in the dining room and sweetpeas and snapdragons decorated the living rooms and reception hall.

The guests were received by Mrs. Tonkinson and Mrs. Ledbetter and seated at small quartette tables, where a two-course luncheon was served. The tables were centered with bowls of pansies and daffodils.

Mrs. Frank Harmer, Mrs. Emery Beal and Mrs. G. A. Scott, of Springfield, were the assistant hostesses. Out-of-town guests included Mrs. J. O. Stewart, Cedarville; Mrs. D. L. Tonkinson, Mrs. Alfred Ottrott and Mrs. Scott of Springfield.

APPROACHING MARRIAGE OF INTEREST IN THIS CITY

Xenia relatives and friends are interested in the approaching marriage of Miss Helen Drew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Drew, of Hampton, La., formerly of Medina, O. to the Rev. Horace Greensmith, of Wauseon, O., which will take place next Wednesday.

The wedding will be solemnized with many pretty appointments and about fifty guests will witness the ceremony. Miss Drew has been teaching in the High School at Medina, O., and the Rev. Mr. Greensmith is pastor of the Congregational Church at Wauseon.

He graduated last May from Oberlin College and seminary. His bride is also a graduate of Oberlin.

The couple had planned to visit Xenia on their honeymoon, but owing to the serious illness of Mrs. Margaret Dillencourt, the bride's grandmother, their plans were deferred.

BEAUTY

Xenia has attained a reputation not only as a city of churches but because of its beauty.

It lays no claim to industrial importance, boasts of no oil or mining booms, speaks lightly of its commercial activities or of its place in the agricultural center of things.

But the fact remains that Xenia lays stress upon its beauty which is taking one step toward making this city an attractive place to live and own a home. Part of this tribute to the city's appearance goes to the administration that foresees the importance of paved streets.

In this respect Xenia takes second place with none. Part of it is due to the fine sense of responsibility of its citizens, who take enthusiastic pride in making their properties attractive to add to the general beauty of the city.

But an organization of humble inception two years ago has grown to occupy an important place in the scheme of things beautiful. This is the Garden Club, which with every increasing influence, is extending its efforts to remove unsightly spots and make a city really beautiful.

The club in addition to sponsoring the cleaning up of unsightly places and the planting of grass and flowers, is making it easy for home owners to acquire flower seed and providing the urge that causes them to take pride in their own surroundings. It has further worked in cooperation with the city and the Pennsylvania Railroad in adding beauty touches that contribute much to the appearance of Xenia in the summer.

Its latest venture however, is probably the most deserving of acclaim. It is the Garden Club's efforts in behalf of the lawn surrounding the Court House. As the setting for Greene County's handsome public building and the actual center of Xenia's business section, beautification of the grounds will prove an important stride in the beautiful campaign.

The planting of grass seed on places worn bare near the edge of the sidewalk is a move that necessitates cooperation of the public. Pedestrians are asked to keep off the grass and police should use their power to see that children did not invade the lawn to trample down this new grass.

With co-operation the efforts of the Garden Club will be rewarded by an achievement that will greatly change the appearance of this bit of lawn.

TRAFFIC

The advent of spring and the increased amount of automobile traffic inspired by the clement weather, should be the signal for greater care in safety practices.

The toll of death from the automobile grows in the summer months when traffic is heavier, and it behoves every driver to use greater caution in avoiding common accidents.

Pedestrians must learn that a full measure of the responsibility for auto accidents devolves upon them, and must accept their share of the caution. It is useless to regulate motor traffic if pedestrians ignore the common rules to safety.

With the exception of a few irresponsible drivers, motorists are generally versed in the standardized rules for traffic operation. Pedestrians however, constantly ignore these rules and place the blame upon the motorist. In Dayton, where traffic signals regulate the flow of traffic both vehicular and on foot, it has been found that motorists abide by the signals while pedestrians ignore the lights and cross streets at will. For that reason Boy Scouts have been stationed at down-town corners during rush hours armed with ropes to hold pedestrians back until they are given a signal to cross.

With automobile traffic increasing annually, it is necessary that both motorists and pedestrians adopt standardized rules for traffic operation and abide by them, if the mortality toll is to be lowered.

If ten years after the wedding she still believes she would prefer keeping him to trading for another man it may be reasonable to believe that such a marriage was a success.—Newark, Ohio, American-Tribune. Probably because the first ten years are the hardest.

The man who used to be getting into his overalls about this time of year has a son who can't hardly wait until golf weather is good enough for his knickers.—Urbana, Ohio, Democrat. And probably does more digging on the links than dad did in the garden.

Prohibition workers say Great Britain is getting wetter and wetter. If that's the case, she must be afloat by this time.—Marin, Ohio, Star. Even the air is foggy.

Edgar A. Guest

THE PET HUSBAND

I hear his praises sounded, by his virtues I am hounded. He's a model of perfection I am told. On his conduct with the ladies not a single touch of shade is, He is neither over timid nor too bold.

To his wife he's so devoted, but so often is he quoted That I fear some day in anger I shall strike.

And do something most alarming to that snug and bland Prince Charming. The husband that she wishes I were like.

I'm a careless sort of slattern, he's a model and a pattern. He never says a word he shouldn't say.

He doesn't keep her slaving when he's finished with his shaving. He always puts his toilet stuff away.

He is generous with his money, and his speech is sweet as honey.

And from day to day he's pointed out to me By the queen of our dominion as just what, in her opinion, The perfect husband really ought to be.

I've grown weary of the sample and this marvelous example For I've learned he chews tobacco, which I don't. And I'd like to draw attention to some faults which I could mention.

But she never would believe me, so I won't. Oh, I've learned by observation I dwell not in isolation.

This is common to all forms of married life, In each house there's ever lurking a pet husband smugly smirking. Some other woman always is his wife.

Today's Talks

All the books in the world about the stars could not arouse nor touch the heart as one single night spent under the rich and resplendent sky.

For hours I have sat or thrown my body against the soft dirt of the earth and looked into the still and blinking eyes of the heavens. I have felt all mankind brought near to me, and wished happiness for every creature under the serene and soothing influence of this incomparable of all.

When I look into the face of the night with its jeweled pathways, I do not doubt but that there is a God up there somewhere. I wouldn't argue it for a minute.

And then when I see a sweet and simple act of unselfish service rendered in everyday life, I am convinced that God doesn't stay up there where it is so lovely, but likes to be where folks are and where He is where those who love Him want to talk things over.

Health Hints
by the Father of Physical Culture

BERNARD MACADDEN

Just as life is impossible without vitalized blood, so is health impossible without blood that possesses necessary elements for health. And it follows just as logically that one's vitality will be in exact ratio to the quality of his blood.

All of the tissues of our flesh and bones are made up of infinitely small cells—small, in fact, that hundreds of them if massed would be invisible across the table. Each cell is born, lives and dies by itself. As fast as a cell dies—a new cell is supplied to take its place.

Exercise, even of the slightest, such as opening or closing the hand, uses up the energy material stored up in cells. Any exercise, or even thinking, causes the death of some cells, and Nature immediately supplies new cells to take the place of those that are defunct. One of the important benefits of bodily exercise is that it causes the destruction or death of many all-but-exhausted cells, which in turn, are replaced by cells that are full of life—vitality.

But the cells die, too, in a body that is actually without motion, in a body whose brain is in a state of complete lethargy. The only difference is that in the inactive body the cells do not die as soon as they should nor are the new cells by which they are replaced as healthy as they should be.

All of this repair work in the body is done by the blood. That fluid carries to all of the tissues of the body the fresh matter that is to build up new, vitalized cells in the place of those that are dying. This repair material is secreted from the food that is digested in the stomach and in the intestines. Hence the need of the most nourishing of foods. Improper food furnishes but poor repair material. That which goes into the stomach and is digested becomes the actual, living body. In this connection I cannot but refer once more to the value of adopting, if not wholly, then partly an uncooked or natural diet. Cooking destroys to a great extent, and sometimes entirely, the cell-life of the food intended to nourish the body. It is reasonable then that this devitalized or dead cell matter will never furnish material of a suitable kind for building up or even repairing the body.

NEW OSBORN DESTINED TO BECOME CENTER OF CEMENT INDUSTRY AND AVIATION IS WORD

"New Osborn is destined to become both the center of the cement industry of the United States and the aviation center of the world." This is what enthusiastic residents of the new town say.

Transformed from farm land into a fast growing village within the space of several years, New Osborn is gaining recognition in the industrial and aeronautical field they claim.

Two large cement companies the Wabash Portland and the Southwestern Portland have millions of dollars invested on the rim of New Osborn in the shape of large plants being constructed on land containing enough lime rock to last 100 years or more. These plants are the basis for the industrial prediction.

With an output at the start of 3,000 barrels a day, the Southwestern will be the first to be completed and will probably begin operation in the early part of May. Later, with more adequate facilities, this capacity will be boosted to 4,500 barrels a day until after June an output of 6,000 barrels will be normal.

Each plant is large with slight difference in size and their presence should give added impetus to the building boom that has taken hold of the community as yet in a small way. Both companies will obtain their rock from identical strata in the lime hills back of the village.

Combined payrolls of the two companies will be nearly $80,000 a month which will run the yearly wages to approximately a million dollars a year, it is said.

Satisfaction over progress shown in the construction of their plant has been expressed by C. Leonhardt, Los Angeles, president of the Southwestern, who is making daily visits to the scene of future operations.

The Southwestern has other plants in Texas and California.

Temporary buildings have been erected by the Wabash people whose plant is but yet in its infancy compared with the construction work on the sister concern which is almost completed. Ground has been broken, construction towers built and a road bed cut which will later be filled with concrete to make a beautiful one and one-fourth mile drive to the plant.

As both companies are of about equal strength this means that they will represent a capital investment of nearly $2,000,000 each when they are finished.

Two railroads, the Big Four and the re-located Erie, will give the companies easy shipping facilities and a train load of cars can be shipped from the plants in daily orders which means shipping 15,000 barrels every twenty-four hours.

Other millions have also been invested in the immediate vicinity of Osborn.

Nearly $5,000,000 will be expended by the United States government in relocating McCook Field and with Wright Field located nearby, it will constitute undoubtedly the largest aviation center in the world.

EAR TORN OFF

Canton, O., April 13—Lewis Anwalt of Morgantown, W. RESERVES WIN PRACTICE GAME SUNDAY AT WASHINGTON PARK; RECRUITS WORKED OUT

BY L. J. WONES

The Xenia Reserve baseball team ushered in the 1925 season Sunday afternoon by defeating Zimmerman at Washington Park by an 8 to 0 score in a rather loosely played game.

The Reserves showed nice form and played excellent ball both in the field and at the bat. They collected six hits during the melee while but one error was made. Captain "Jap" Ritter gave everyone that was out for the team a chance and all showed up well.

Two twirlers were used by the locals. Cyphers starting the game and going five full rounds. During this time he permitted but four hits, coming in the first three innings. His support was good and he fanned seven and had good control throughout.

McDonnell went to the hill in the sixth and finished the game in nice shape. The Zimmerman lads could do nothing with Willie's benders and the result was that they did not get a safe blow off him. He fanned five and issued one walk. Of the eight runs garnered by the Reserves only two of them were earned, as errors gave them the other six.

Zimmerman presented a well balanced club that fought hard all the way. They made some costly errors while they could not do much with either of the local twirlers and this explains why they finished on the short end.

Things looked bad for the locals in the first round when C. Johnson singled and went to second when McConnell hit safely through second. Blake fled to Ritter who pegged to Randall catching Johnson off third. D. Cyphers fanned for the third out.

The locals then got busy and E. Leahy, lead off man, was given a free ticket to first. Cain laid a nice one down in the direction of the pitcher who fumbled and both runners were safe. Leahy stole third and Cain went down on the next pitched ball. McConnell's peg to second was low and the ball bounded to the outfield Leahy scoring while Cain took third. Ritter singled sharply to right center scoring Cain. Randall bounded to D. Cyphers who failed to force Ritter at second. Cox forced Randall at second while Ritter went to third on the out. Fuller fled to deep center and Ritter scored after the catch. C. Johnson kicked F. Leahy's grounder and Cox scored. Durnbaugh fouled to Dickey and Cox scored. Durnbaugh fanned to Leahy for the last out.

The Reserves added another run in the second when Cyphers tripled to left and scored on Cain's infield out. D. Cyphers got the side in order in the third, fourth and fifth. Fuller led off with a single in the sixth but was caught stealing. F. Leahy fanned and Durnbaugh popped to Johnson.

McDonnell reached first safely in the seventh when C. Johnson fumbled his grounder. E. Leahy doubled to left scoring McDonnell but Leahy was thrown out at third trying to stretch the hit into a triple. Toland grounded to C. Johnson and Satterwaite rolled to D. Cyphers. The locals annexed two more for good measure in the eighth. Randall bounded to C. Johnson for the first out. Borden rolled to Bart who threw wild to first and Borden took second on the overthrow. Milburn grounded out and Borden advanced to third on the out. P. Fuller dumped one back of short that C. Johnson failed to get after a hard run. Borden scoring on the scratch single. Durnbaugh singled to deep left scoring P. Fuller with the last run of the game. McDonnell fled to Johnson ending the rally.

The Reserves will play the Hamilton Clarks next Sunday at Washington Park.

Bowling

Brickle's "5" of the Xenia Bowling League lost a match game to the Coca-Cola team of the Dayton Royal League Saturday night here by sixty-two pins. Xenia had the edge on the visitors in the first two games but the Dayton five, becoming better acquainted with the strange alleys, collected a sufficient number of pins to overcome the lead in the last game.

Teddy Stechow was best for the winners with a three game total of 591. Box score:

MILLINERY STORE REPORTED ROBBED

Burglars gained entrance to Mrs. L. H. Finney millinery store, in the Steele Building some time between 6:30 and 9 o'clock Thursday night and escaped with $8 in cash from the cash drawer, it was reported at Police headquarters late Friday. A large sum of money was overlooked.

The thief or thieves entered the store through the skylight presumably using a rope, and left the building by a side door which he or she left open.

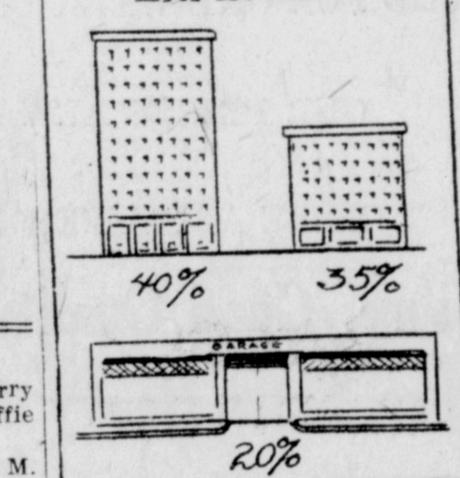

Charles Phillips, merchant policeman, discovered the open door on his nightly rounds about 9 o'clock, and investigating found the store had been entered.

Patrolman Charles Thompson sent to investigate, found no clues.

Taking an average of costs in both small and large cities, a recent survey reveals some interesting building cost figures, shown in the table below.

He was a life long member of the United Presbyterian Church of Jamestown. Surviving is his widow and three children by his first wife. They are: Mrs. Graham Torley, Lansing, Mich., and the Misses Anna and Ruth Turnbull at home. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Clark Bickett of near Xenia and three brothers, Samuel, Ezra and Joseph of near Jamestown.

Funeral services will be held at the home Tuesday afternoon at 10 o'clock with burial in the Jamestown Cemetery.

YESTERDAY'S JUNIOR PUZZLE ANSWER

BRINGING UP FATHER

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER XIV.
A formal appearing note from Katherine Capper awaited Michael when he went home in the evening.

"Please come in to tea Sunday afternoon," it read. In parenthesis it yielded the information: "L. P. will be here." L. P., of course meant Lilah Pharley. He smiled, and wondered, egotistically, if Katherine had planned this like a matchmaker, just to bring Lilah and himself together.

He sat down at his desk and wrote a brief note: "Of course I'll come." Then he happened to remember: "Hang it, I've promised the Winstons to come out there. They have Sunday dinner at 2 or 3 o'clock but I'll never be able to get away in time to go to the Cappers. Oh, darn!" He pondered about it a minute.

Then he slowly sealed and stamped the envelope to Katherine. Then he brightened up. "Oh, I'll fix it some way."

That evening for the first time he went down to the University Club for an evening. Alonzo was there.

"Well, I suppose you'll be busy Sunday afternoon," Michael beamed. Alonzo regarded him blankly.

"Is it going to be just a family affair, or something formal?" Michael continued.

Alonzo comprehended at last. "Oh, you mean that! Look here Mike you mustn't expect me to keep up with all this. The fact you can impose up my sister to the extent of getting her to put on a party just so your timid soul can flutter in the presence of a lady love is no sign that you can drag me in as a prop."

His tone of annoyance was affected, but Michael took him seriously for a moment. "Why, I didn't have anything to do—" he began, protestingly.

"I don't mean that," Alonzo softened, then grew vehement. "You simply stirred up her incurable matchmaking mania. She's determined now to marry you to that Pharley woman. God help you! If you only knew the traps and snares she has laid for me!"

He saw Michael's wrinkled brow and laughed. "Aw come'n let's have a drink—of lemonade."

"You're going to be there Sunday, aren't you?" Michael asked him dubiously, as they walked to the bareless bar.

"No," was the answer, uttered in an unmistakable tone.

"Aw, why not?" he urged. "You know you enjoy yourself when there are lots of pretty girls present."

"I'd rather fish for minnows," Alonzo returned. "Say, there's good show coming to town tomorrow night. Road Company Number 16 of 'Stepping High' with the original New York cast of beauties who've never been in New York. Let's go. I'll get the tickets."

Michael hesitated. Then he asked his friend: "Do you think it would be all right for me to go?" I mean, so soon after—

"Oh, you know she herself wouldn't mind. Your mother would have gone with us if she were feeling well, you know that."

Lonnie's expression warmed Michael's heart. One of the reasons why he was bound to Lonnie was his friend's admiration for Mrs. Menlow. And now, if Lonnie said it would be all right for him to go to a show, it certainly would be, regardless of what other people thought. And it would be all right for him to take Lilah to dances, too.

As they were waiting for their lemonades, Michael grew confidential.

"I've got to go to Chicago, and I don't want to. Manning suggested the trip to me this morning in such a way that I couldn't refuse to say I was going the first of the month. I'm sure he has something up his sleeve. The stockholders' meeting will be held the middle of next month. I suppose he thinks he'll fix it so I can't come."

"Do you have to be here in order to vote?"

"No, not if I give someone else my proxy. But giving him my proxy would be the same as voting his way, and I can't give it to anybody else in the company unreservedly."

"Why not let me be your proxy?"

Michael looked at him a moment. "That's a bully idea—only you're not a stockholder."

"That's all right. Sell or give me a share."

"That's just what I'll do," he exclaimed enthusiastically. "As secretary, I can register it without him knowing anything about it."

"That'll be strictly on the level, won't it?"

"Oh, yes."

Now, he knew, there was no need of him worrying about being out-maneuvered if he failed to attend the meeting. Of course he expected to be present, but he had an idea that Manning had other plans.

(To be continued.)

Cincinnati, April 13.—Three children were burned to death and their mother seriously injured Sunday when coal oil used by one of the little ones preparatory to building a fire and boiling Easter eggs at their home near Miamitown, O., exploded.

Raymond Holden, 11, who built the fire and his sisters, Emma, 12, and Jane Holden, 3, are dead.

Mrs. Alice Holden, 34, the mother, tried to save the baby from the burning house but failed.

Lima O., April 13.—One child was burned to death and another perhaps fatally injured when a coal oil lamp exploded in the home of John Mamp shortly after nine o'clock this morning.

Albert aged 16 months, was dead when firemen reached him after they had battled their way through the flames. Harry, aged four, escaped from the house when the explosion occurred.

Mrs. Irene Thomas, a neighbor, smashed in a window with her hands and pulled Francis, aged five months, from the fire.

The child is not expected to live.

Mrs. Mamp was away at the time, having stepped to a corner store. It is thought that one of the children knocked the lamp over causing it to explode.

NAME OF HENRY FORD

AS AIR ROUTE STARTS

"Maiden Dearborn" Is Off On Initial Trip To Chicago
Carrying Ford Parts

Detroit, April 13.—Henry Ford, owner of the world's largest automobile plant, a railroad line and recently the purchaser of a fleet of steamships, had his name carried into the air today.

At 9:22 a. m. the "Maiden Dearborn," one of a proposed fleet of planes that will establish aerial communication between Ford's Dearborn plant and assembly factories located in other cities, hopped off from the Ford airport at Dearborn on its first voyage to Chicago.

The "Maiden Dearborn" carried light automobile parts for Chicago and Ford plant mall, weighing approximately one thousand pounds.

The plane was expected to reach the Maywood air field in Chicago in three hours. Later the time is expected to be cut down to about two hours.

Leaving Chicago in the afternoon, the plane, carrying another cargo of one thousand pounds, will return to the Ford airport here where it is scheduled to arrive about 5:30 p. m.

The airplane was designed and manufactured in Detroit. Another ship of the same type is near completion and is expected to be placed in the Ford interplant service.

The ships have a capacity of 2,000 pounds and a maximum speed of 116 miles an hour.

DAYTON DETECTIVES
HERE IN EFFORT TO FIND SAFE ROBBERS

Detective L. J. Janning and Homer Rohlf, of the Dayton police department were in Xenia Monday for the purpose of linking three alleged yeggs with Dayton safe robbers and tracing the missing man in the rooming house episode here last Friday night.

Columbus officers assisted by local police arrested Mr. and Mrs. Frank Puckett at an East Second Street rooming house Friday night, but another man, alleged to be in connection with twenty-four safe blowing jobs in Columbus, had absented himself a short time before the raid.

Earl Kelly and Frank and William Puckett all of Dayton, were arrested on clues furnished by Detective Rohlf and Janning in Columbus and Xenia are said to have confessed to committing twenty-four safe robberies in Columbus since January 1.

Columbus and Dayton authorities and Xenia police are now seeking another member of the alleged gang.

Dayton detectives are investigating information that George Puckett, a brother of Dayton, committed to the Dayton Workhouse last week by local police on a charge of drunk and driving an auto while intoxicated, may have been implicated in the robberies.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Puckett as well as a third alleged confederate had been rooming in Xenia for more than two weeks. The missing man owned a Ford car which he kept at Swigert's garage, it is said.

BELIEVE DOUBLE TRAGEDY SUICIDE-MURDER

Daughter Defends Woman Accused Of Poisoning

BY SONIA LEE

Gary, Indiana, April 12.—Unequivocally declaring the innocence of her mother, Anna Cunningham, who is ill in the Cook County Hospital as a result of the vigorous questioning which she had undergone relative to the death of her husband and four children, Mae Cunningham, 18, today was to take her place at the bedside of the woman whom she claims immune from guilt.

With none of the counterpoints of grief, with only the practicality of the unemotional, she sat in a leather rocker in the low-ceilinged parlor of the house on Buchanan Street and cited chapter and verse of the experiences of the Cunningham family, which would perhaps dispel the doubt surrounding the death of five of its members.

"Relatives," she begins, "are to blame for starting suspicion and for the present condition of my mother. I was too little to know exactly what was the matter with my father when he died. We were living on the farm then and mother and father cared a great deal for each other. They didn't visit around at the neighbors a lot, because when they had a little time, they'd go to Valparaiso. Here then began the first stories that my parents were queer. In the country if one doesn't visit one is queer." When father died we moved to Gary,—that was six years ago. Two years later, my sister, Isabell, then 20, died after an illness of about three weeks. She and Walter, 10, who died last and David who is now sick at the Columbus Hospital suffered from the same disease.

"They had some kind of a bone disease which the doctor treated by injections in the spine. The attending physician, Dr. Watts, who had been the family doctor for four years, said that the disease was hereditary and that it came from my father's side.

"Then my father's sister, Mrs. Robert Arnold, resented this, and she always talked about it. She knows what was the matter with Isabel and Walter and what's the matter with David. She knows my mother isn't to blame. But she's always made things hard for us after every death when mother was in mourning, she'd come and wonder if they couldn't have been saved if more had been done for them.

"It used to drive my mother half crazy. Right after Isabell's death, mother began having spells, due to an upset system. She became a little odd, and when she had spells she didn't know anyone but me. But whoever says she was dangerous lies. People have been telling so many lies. They say that mother didn't want David to go to the hospital. As a matter of fact, she insisted for a whole week that he do so, but he's so bashful that he objected until the pain became too severe.

"Others have accused mother of not calling a doctor. Why we never had so much as a sick headache without mother calling in the doctor.

"Mother poison her children? That's foolish. When she was sick I was with her every minute.

"And when she was well she would not have done a thing like that I know. She's my mother.

"She might as well be accused of murder," she continued her tale in that flat monotone of hopelessness.

"I helped mother prepare meals and I put up lunches for David when mother was in bed. So it is not arsenic. Up to about six weeks ago, as far as I know, we've never had a bit of it in the house. On the farm, Dad use it to sprinkle the trees with and used it for killing rats.

"But all the time we were in Gary, up to just recently, we never used it. Mother sent me down to get something for the rats and the druggist, Mr. Hall, wouldn't sell me arsenic, but gave me something else. But it didn't do any good and I went down the street and bought a little box for twenty-five cents. I bought another box of it later on and we kept it on top of a cabinet, so no one could get into it. I helped mother dissolve it in water and then placed it in the basement.

"Mother has been much better the last month but there was little that she did without me. I did most of the shopping and helped get supper when I came home from work. So if mother had bought arsenic, I would have known it, I think."

"All lines of investigation in to the deaths today rested on the disinterment of the body of Walter Cunningham, aged ten, the last of the five victims.

The general appropriation bill, now before the governor, carries an appropriation of $700,000 for destruction of cattle condemned after tuberculin tests and for expenses of condemnation, outside the employment of experts. The governor is expected to recommend the appropriation be increased to $1,000,000.

The measure provides that when a majority of owners representing 75 per cent of the cattle population of a township applies for the test the area may be placed under quarantine and no meat or milk shipped outside except such as is derived from cattle passing the test. The measure also provides that after 90 per cent of the cattle in a given area are tested, the testing of the remainder can be required.

Other bills signed by the governor included:

By Marshall, Cuyahoga, clarifying the statute relating to foreign wills.

By Marshall, Greene, more clearly defining liabilities of warehousemen.

By Hadden, Cuyahoga, permitting guardians to make 99 year leases of property under their care.

By Bartlett, Geauga, repealing present provision of law that directors of cooperative marketing associations are liable for losses and making them liable only as stockholders.

By Williams, Fayette, including state to regulate foodstuff.

By Riggs, Gallia, permitting the Bureau of Markets to standardize produce in given locations upon application to farmers and their agreement to pay for the cost.

CORONER SAYS WIFE
MURDERED HUSBAND
THEN SHOT HERSELF

No Reason Assigned For Cleveland Shooting—
Dead Since Friday

Cleveland, April 13.—Coroner A. P. Hammond today was expected to formally declare the double tragedy which claimed the lives of H. B. Wrenn, 50, assistant electrical engineer of the Union Terminal Company and his wife Mrs. Isabel Norma Wrenn, 51, as a case of murder and suicide. Their bodies were to be shipped to Wrenn's brother, B. E. Wrenn at Sarasota, Fla., for burial.

The tragedy was believed to have occurred Friday morning, just as the couple sat down to breakfast. The bodies were discovered when police broke down the door of the fashionable apartment in which they lived in Lakewood, a suburb, after the custodian had told them a light had been left burning for two nights and two days in the dining room.

According to police theory, Mrs. Wrenn, inspired by a sudden fit of jealousy, shot her husband through the temple. She then wrote a note which read:

"Now I will frame me up no more or blast no more lives. I did this for my country's sake and for my family and his children."

She then fired three shots at herself. One pierced her heart. A long letter to a sister, Mrs. A. A. Poole, 33 West 51 Street, together with an Easter card addressed to "My Dear Husband and Chum" were found beside the unsigned note.

Neighbors said the Wrenns appeared to be a happy and loving couple. They were married in New York. In the apartment was found the record of their marriage as also papers showing both were previously divorced.

Mrs. Wrenn was divorced from Harry E. White in St. Louis in 1915 and that Wrenn had been divorced in New York in 1913 from Mrs. Caroline Elizabeth Wrenn.

Wrenn's mother, Mrs. G. R. Wrenn is now at Washington Sanitarium, Tacoma Park, Washington.

Mrs. Wrenn was said to have met her husband, while conducting a boarding house at which Wrenn was a guest. They were married in Elizabeth, N. J.

NAVAL PLANES WILL ATTEMPT NON-STOP
FLIGHT TO HAWAII

Three Seaplanes Will Take Part In Experiment From California Start

Washington, April 13.—A non-stop flight to Hawaii will be undertaken this summer by naval seaplanes, it was officially announced today. The date and officers to make the flight will be selected later.

Two planes developed at the naval aircraft factory in Philadelphia will take part while a third which is now building at the plant of the Boeing Airplane Company in Seattle will also be used if completed in time.

The flight to Honolulu will be attempted as a full scale test of planes developed by naval engineers. The plans will be of the long distance patrol type, developed for overseas scouting operations from a land base. They are called the air cruisers of the navy.

The ships will take off from either San Francisco or San Diego. They will be shipped to the latter city the last of this month for assembly and test.

The planes are known as the PN-8 type, and are bi-motored. They carry normally a crew of five men and when fully loaded weigh approximately 18,125 pounds, or slightly over nine tons, of which fifty per cent is useful load.

The engines are Packard built and are rated at 475 horse power, but actually develop in excess of 500, giving a maximum speed of 117 miles an hour and a cruising speed of eighty miles an hour.

The construction of the PN-8 is a combination of wood, metal and fabric. The wings are of wood and fabric and the boat hull is entirely of steel.

"That's all right, lady," replied the copper, a big Irishman, "God knows you tried."

STEAL $25,000

New York, April 13.—Four well-dressed young cracksmen "blew" three safes in the Reid Ice Company offices early today and escaped with about $25,000 in cash and bonds leaving the watchman bound, gagged and unconscious on the floor.

UMPIRE HURT
Cleveland, O., April 13.—"Old Dan" Higgins, 60, former big league baseball player, is near death here today, as the result of being struck by a foul tip, in a game between boys' nines, yesterday in which Higgins had acted as umpire.

Henry Ford Has Quiet Holiday Here

By ALICE FOLEY

While enjoying a quiet visit with members of the E. R. Bryant family, East Second Street, Henry Ford, Detroit automobile manufacturer, graciously received an interviewer Saturday night. The interview shortly followed an informal dinner party at the Bryant home at which Mr. and Mrs. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Ives and the Bryant family were seated.

Mr. Ford seemed interested in the plans for the flight of a fleet of airplanes, constructed by the Ford Motor Company, on the inaugural journey from Chicago to Detroit Monday morning. The flight was the first on the mail and freight course, which will be regularly carried on.

Mr. Ford's attention was attracted by an automobile device, perfected by a Xenia man, when the interviewer was received. "I suppose you're bothered quite a good bit by such devices, aren't you, Mr. Ford," his visitor asked. He replied that it was the first sent to him in six months and that the newspaper representative was also the first he has received in that period of time.

When questioned about his plans for the D. T. and I. railroad point at Springfield, he said that the plan was to shorten the route of the railroad into the city and to lay a more direct single track north of the city. The plans do not call for any erection of buildings or elaborate changes, but rather with the direct aim of overcoming the present round-about route. South Charleston, as the main point between Detroit and Springfield on the D. T. and I. will be given attention as a freight center and the large tract of land purchased there will be used for freight sidings, he said. He inspected his interests there before coming to Xenia.

Mr. Ford seemed interested in the plans for the flight of a fleet of airplanes, constructed by the Ford Motor Company, on the inaugural journey from Chicago to Detroit Monday morning. The flight was the first on the mail and freight course, which will be regularly carried on.

Mr. Ford listened alertly to the quibbles of his interviewer and cupped his hand over his ear to catch the questions.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford's visit in Xenia over the week end was without any formal function and the two days were spent quietly with Mr. and Mrs. Bryant and their five youngsters. They spent Sunday quietly and left Sunday evening for Detroit, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ives of Dearborn, who came here with them Friday.

KILLED WHEN AUTO
IS STRUCK BY CAR

Canton, Ohio, April 13.—Pete Miketch, 30, was almost instantly killed and two companions George Dovotevitch and Mike Zuzich, badly injured, when an automobile which Miketch was driving, collided with a Stark electric car last midnight, just outside the city limits. The machine is said to have run directly into the side of the electric car.

QUALITIES ENGINEERING STUDENTS NEED OUTLINED AT MEETING AT ANTIOTH COLLEGE

More faith in humanity, a greater love for their fellow beings, ability to think straight, inclination to talk less, and willingness to work hard are a few of the qualities set forth as most needed by modern engineering students by Dean A. A. Potter of Purdue University, president of the Society for Promotion of Engineering Education, at the annual conference of the Ohio Section of the Society held at Antioch College Saturday.

Scientific men representing seven institutions throughout the state spoke in morning and afternoon sessions to delegates assembled at Yellow Springs at the invitation of Antioch College. Problems in engineering education were discussed following each address. The delegates, welcomed in opening addresses by President Arthur E. Morgan and Dean Philip C. Nash, of Antioch, were present throughout the day, and were the guests of the college and student body at a picnic luncheon near the yellow spring in the Antioch Glen.

Dean Potter in opening the afternoon session at 2 o'clock, outlined tendencies in engineering education. He was followed by H. P. Hammond, Associate Director of Investigation for the Society, who spoke on the problems encountered in attempting an analysis of causes of failure among engineering students.

On the morning program Professor William T. Magruder, of Ohio State University, compared engineering student material today with that of ten years ago. A discussion following his talk was led by Dean Herman Schneider, of the University of Cincinnati; Professor A. C. Swinerton of Antioch College; and Professor F. M. Comstock and Dean T. M. Focke of the Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland.

Other morning speakers were Professor E. S. Smith of Cincinnati, who as a result of a recent investigation conducted by him, spoke of the increasing demand of schools upon the students' time; and Prof. W. L. Evans, of Ohio State, whose subject was the teaching of chemistry to Freshman. Discussion on these addresses was led by Dean Fred E. Ayer, of the University of Akron, and Professor W. R. Veazey, of the Case School.

That engineering schools commonly graduate only one-half of their entering freshman and that many fail by the wayside thru poor health or lack of interest was cited by President A. A. Potter as a fact worthy of close study.

"Failure on the part of the student to grasp a subject should not always be laid at his door," said Dr. Potter, "and more attention should be given to the causes of failure."

According to the diagnostic study of impending failures being carried on by the S. P. E. E. in cooperation with engineering colleges of the country, much student lack of interest is due to overcrowded curricula or to the too great similarity of the elementary college courses and high school courses. This must be corrected by a better selection of the subject to be offered, and by giving the college student more immediate contact with the practical problems he is to face.

High school teachers, says Dr. Potter, must be more familiar with the scope of the engineering college, since the increasing vocational work of the schools is resulting in poorer preparation for the higher institutions.

Many qualities not often thought of in connection with engineering students were declared by President Potter to be essential if the latter are really to succeed. Among these are intelligence to express themselves clearly and logically, and the desire for inventiveness, for trying new paths thru creative thought.

Recognition of successful students thru newspaper publicity was cited as a possible means of encouragement and stimulation of scholarship.

An engineer of the highest possible efficiency and capability will suffer in community standing unless his character is also high. Dr. Potter believes Good codes of business ethics can never be developed in students by occasional lectures on the subject. The men must come into association with teachers who embody in their own lives the sterling qualities of character they seek to impart.

The engineering student needs an understanding of true citizenship; a spirit of toleration for the rights of others, and an appreciation of other governments, as well as a realization of the many exceptional opportunities afforded to Americans.

"The public esteem for engineering will grow," asserted Dr. Potter, "if we strive to develop engineers who have outstanding qualities of character, superior personalities, and who are capable of rendering unselfish service to society."

President Potter led the discussion following the address by H. P. Hammond, the S. P. E. E. Associate Director of Investigation, on problems of investigation in the engineering educational field. Mr. Hammond, who is Professor of Sanitary and Hydraulic Engineering at the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, has lately collected a considerable amount of material and information regarding the engineering student; his antecedents and preparation—and also regarding the admission and selection process.

Representing Antioch College, Professor Horace B. English outlined a course in scientific methods as the most effective preparation for students intending to devote themselves to research work. Professor J. R. Withrow of Ohio State led the discussion.

Professor Robert Melklejohn, also of Ohio State, concluded the afternoon program with an exposition of the mechanical drawing factor in engineering education. Discussion was led by Professor C. W. Thomas, of the Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland.

Mingling with the whole Antioch Student body and faculty on the mound which the yellow spring has been building in "Antioch Glen" ever since the time of the glaciers, the delegates enjoyed a real picnic luncheon and social intermission lasting over an hour and a half between the sessions of the convention.

POSTMASTER MAKES HIS INSPECTION OF RURAL MAIL ROUTES

Postmaster C. S. Frazer announced Saturday that he is conducting the semi-annual inspection of the ten rural postal mail routes in the county. One inspection is made in April and October of each year.

The inspection is devoted entirely to the condition of rural mail boxes, a number of which are usually improperly placed and others which are in poor condition and do not measure up to regulation postal standards.

Postmaster Frazer has inspected boxes on three routes during the past week and expects to complete his work in less than ten days visiting one route each day. He advises all rural residents who have mail boxes in poor condition to either repair the old ones or obtain new boxes.

Each box should be painted white with the name of the owner printed in prominent black letters, as required by the postal department.

CLERKS INSTRUCTED ABOUT NEW POSTAL RATES TO BE USED

Instructions are being given clerks in the Xenia postoffice relative to the new postal rates which will become effective Wednesday, Postmaster C. S. Frazer declared Monday.

The new rates occasioned by the passage of the recent postal bill will be effective in practically every branch of the service.

The new one and one half cent stamp resembles the four cent stamp, being light brown in color and bearing the same photograph of the Warren Harding memorial stamp issued after his death. This stamp will be used on all merchandise, books and circulars of less than eight ounces in weight.

Another new stamp, a fractional cent stamp of one-half cent denomination will be used on the old supply of envelopes which now carry the one cent stamp. It carries the picture of Nathan Hale.

Mailing of postcards will cost two cents instead of one cent when the new law becomes effective and a two-cent service charge will be made on parcel post packages excepting rural route, which packages must bear the words "Rural Route."

A provision is also made for a new twenty-five cent special handling stamp for fragile articles and first-class mail. This stamp carries the figure "25" and is marked "Special Handling."

NEW STAMP READY FOR CHANGE IN RATE

A supply of one and one half cent postage stamps to be placed in use April 15, when the postal rate laws, passed by Congress and approved by President Coolidge become effective have been received at the Xenia Postoffice, according to Postmaster C. S. Frazer. A supply of proper envelopes has also been received, he says.

These stamps will be used on third class matter and circulars under the new postal regulations.

Stamps of one-half cent denomination will be received at the postoffice within several days. These stamps will be placed on all stamped one-cent envelopes for third class matter.

Miss Rogers Gained 15 Pounds In Six Weeks

Skinny Men and Women Gain 5 Pounds in 30 Days or Money Back.

My dear Friends:
After my attack of Flu I was thin, run-down and weak. I had a sallow complexion, my cheeks were sunken and I was continually troubled with gas on my stomach. I felt stuffy and had lost my appetite. At once, I began to pick up an appetite, my cheeks filled out and my complexion became healthy looking and I gained 15 pounds in six weeks and am very thankful for what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for me.

Miss Alberta Rogers, 264 W. Cerro Gorda St., Decatur, Ill.

To take on weight, grow strong and vigorous, to fill out the hollows in cheeks and neck, try McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets for 30 days. 60 tablets—60 cents at Sayre & Hemphill's, Sohn's Drug Store, and live druggists everywhere. If they don't give you wonderful help in 30 days, get your money back—you be the judge. But be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine.

MODISH MITZI—The Question Is, Who is He?

By JAY V. JAY

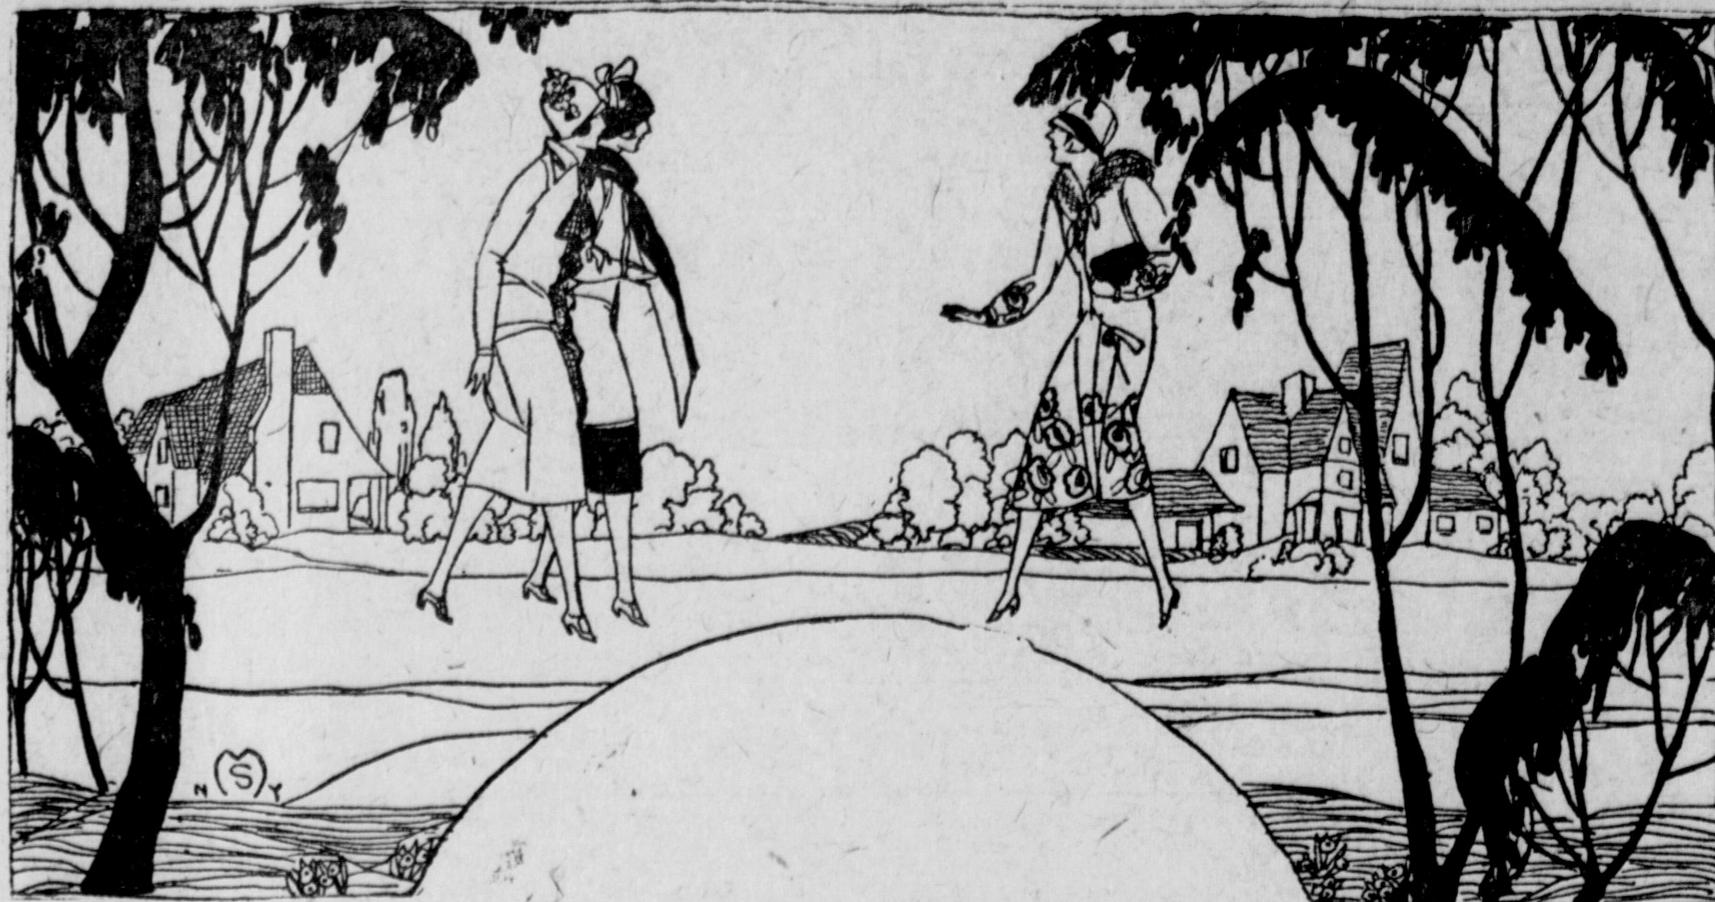

Dad is just dashing off on a two week's business trip and is being escorted in the most appropriate domestic fashion to the front door. You can catch just a glimpse of Mitzi's striped cotton broadcloth morning dress with raglan sleeves and a turned back collar.

How perplexing that a cablegram should arrive for Dad just after he has left. Plainly it is Mitzi's duty to open and read it before forwarding it because it might be important. Not so important possibly, though as the fact that Aunt Sophia's morning dress is of polka dot voile.

Well, who is Alan anyway? Is it his first or last name? Is this business? Or has Dad been expecting some friend? It's safe to say that never will a cablegram be relayed on to its ultimate destination faster than this cablegram will be—and with it a demand from Mitzi for information.

Polly is called into consultation. She is quite baffled. The matter is not nearly so simple as her new morning dress of blue kashmir. It is complex—more complex even than the geometrical patterns of Mitzi's new house frock or printed voile. Only Father Time can tell. Will he?

MRS. MEREDITH HOSTESS AT CHARMING MUSICALE

The Dayton Woman's Club was the scene of a delightful entertainment Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. Mary M. Meredith afforded her guests the opportunity of hearing an unusually charming program given by her brother, Mr. Edmund Munger of the Conservatory of the College of Bloomington, Ill., and Mrs. Lo Rean Hodapp, soprano soloist of the Westminster choir of Dayton.

Mrs. Meredith received her guests with Mrs. W. J. Cherry and Mrs. Mary Little Dice and they were ushered at once into the tea-room of the club where the program was given.

Mr. Munger, whose playing has given his friends much pleasure on previous occasions and who is always welcomed by them, presented the first number which consisted of two movements—the Andantino and the Vivacissimo of the Sonata in F Major by Sibelius and he prefaced his performance with a few remarks on the composer, the one outstanding musical genius as yet produced by Finland. He spoke of the melancholy always so characteristic of the northern races which is so noticeable in the works of this composer and which was so feelingly portrayed by the performer.

Mr. Munger also presented a group of Chopin numbers—the lovely Ballade in A flat major, two Preludes, the one in E minor and the one in F sharp minor, the F major Etude and the C sharp minor Nocturne. The program appeared at his best in these numbers, the beautiful melodious Ballade and the lovely rippling Etude being particular favorites with the audience. His third and last group was miscellaneous in character and consisted of the "Guitare" by Moszkowski which he played with great spirit; the lovely, ethereal "Swan" by Palmgren, another Finnish composer; the picturesque "Gardens in the Rain" by Debussy and a Scherzo-Valse by Chabrier, which is very modern in spirit. Mr. Munger's hearers expressed their appreciation enthusiastically and he responded with two lovely encores, the Fourth or Venetian Barcarolle by Godard and the "Song of the Traveller" by Paderewski.

Mrs. Hodapp presented three groups of songs, the one consisting of four German numbers "Auf dem Wasser zu Singen"—by Shubert, "Der Schmetterling ist in die Rose Verliebt" and "Ach, Wenn Ich doch ein Immlchen war" both by Franz and "Erster Begegnen" by Grieg. The second group consisted of a single number "Caro Nome" by Verdi and the third Handel's "O, Sleep, Why Dost Thou Leave Me," "The Little Damozel" by Novello, "Lilacs" by Emma Jean Davidson and "The Rhapsody" by Warford.

Possessed of a lyric soprano voice of rare loveliness, Mrs. Hodapp captivated her audience with her first number and won their increasing enthusiasm with the rest of her program. Her voice is flawless in pitch with an angelic sweetness of quality which is accentuated by the perfect ease with which she sings. The light, floating quality of her tones was especially apparent in the encore with which she followed her artistic rendering of the Aria from "Rigoletto"—"The Bird" by Fiske. This number displayed the exquisite delicacy of her voice to perfection and was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Hodapp sings with an almost perfect diction which adds much to the pleasure of her hearers as does her sweet and gracious manner. Miss Vivian Tripp was the accompanist of the afternoon and she made a large contribution to the program by the sympathetic manner in which she interpreted the singer's moods.

At the close of the program a delicious refreshment course was served.

HANDSOME RECEPTION AT TONKINSON HOME

Quantities of fragrant and delicate tinted Spring flowers were used as a charming decorating scheme when Mrs. A. M. Tonkinson and Mrs. R. C. Ledbetter, received thirty-five guests at the Tonkinson home on the Springfield Pike, Saturday afternoon.

Bowls of pansies and daffodils were used in the dining room and sweetpeas and snapdragons decorated the living rooms and reception hall.

The guests were received by Mrs. Tonkinson and Mrs. Ledbetter and seated at small quartette tables, where a two-course luncheon was served. The tables were centered with bowls of pansies and daffodils.

Mrs. Frank Harner, Mrs. Emery Beal and Mrs. G. A. Scott of Springfield, were the assistant hostesses. Out-of-town guests included Mrs. J. O. Stewart, Cedarville; Mrs. D. L. Tonkinson, Mrs. Alfred Ottost and Mrs. Scott of Springfield.

XENIA GIRL WINS PRIZE FOR DRAWING

MRS. JOHN FUDGE TO BE ARRAIGNED HERE FOLLOWING ARREST

Mrs. Gertrude Fudge, Xenia, wife of John Fudge, who mysteriously disappeared about two weeks ago after jumping a $100 bond for appearance in the Dayton Juvenile Court, was located at Dayton, Ky., Saturday and returned to Xenia to face a charge of perjury.

Since her disappearance, Dayton as well as Xenia authorities had lost all trace of Mrs. Fudge, who repeatedly escaped rearrest by traveling to St. Louis, Jacksonville, Fla., and to other points and finally to Dayton, Ky.

A warrant for her arrest on the delinquency charge was sworn out in the local Juvenile Court and it is expected Mrs. Fudge would be arraigned Monday on the charge here. She is being held in the County Jail.

Mrs. Fudge was located by police of Dayton, Ky., together with her husband, at a small rooming house along the Ohio River where the couple had been living a short time under the assumed names of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Johnson.

She was arrested in Dayton several weeks ago for shop lifting.

BEAUTY

Xenia has attained a reputation not only as a city of churches but because of its beauty.

It lays no claim to industrial importance, boasts of no oil or mining booms, speaks lightly of its commercial activities or of its place in the agricultural center of things.

But the fact remains that Xenia lays stress upon its beauty which is taking one step toward making this city an attractive place to live and own a home. Part of this tribute to the city's appearance goes to the administration that foresees the importance of paved streets.

In this respect Xenia takes second place with none. Part of it is due to the fine sense of responsibility of its citizens, who take enthusiastic pride in making their properties attractive to add to the general beauty of the city.

But an organization of humble inception two years ago has grown to occupy an important place in the scheme of things beautiful. This is the Garden Club, which with every increasing influence, is extending its efforts to remove unsightly spots and make a city really beautiful.

The club in addition to sponsoring the cleaning up of unsightly places and the planting of grass and flowers, is making it easy for home owners to acquire flower seed and providing the urge that causes them to take pride in their own surroundings. It has further worked in cooperation with the city and the Pennsylvania Railroad in adding beauty touches that contribute much to the appearance of Xenia in the summer.

Its latest venture however, is probably the most deserving of acclaim. It is the Garden Club's efforts in behalf of the lawn surrounding the Court House. As the setting for Greene County's handsome public building and the actual center of Xenia's business section, beautification of the grounds will prove an important stride in the beautiful campaign.

The planting of grass seed on places worn bare near the edge of the sidewalk is a move that necessitates cooperation of the public. Pedestrians are asked to keep off the grass and police should use their power to see that children did not invade the lawn to trample down this new grass.

With co-operation the efforts of the Garden Club will be rewarded by an achievement that will greatly change the appearance of this bit of lawn.

TRAFFIC

The advent of spring and the increased amount of automobile traffic inspired by the clement weather, should be the signal for greater care in safety practices.

The toll of death from the automobile grows in the summer months when traffic is heavier, and it behoves every driver to use greater caution in avoiding common accidents.

Pedestrians must learn that a full measure of the responsibility for auto accidents devolves upon them, and must accept their share of the caution. It is useless to regulate motor traffic if pedestrians ignore the common rules to safety.

With the exception of a few irresponsible drivers, motorists are generally versed in the standardized rules for traffic operation. Pedestrians however, constantly ignore these rules and place the blame upon the motorist. In Dayton, where traffic signals regulate the flow of traffic both vehicular and on foot, it has been found that motorists abide by the signals while pedestrians ignore the lights and cross streets at will. For that reason Boy Scouts have been stationed at down-town corners during rush hours armed with ropes to hold pedestrians back until they are given a signal to cross.

With automobile traffic increasing annually, it is necessary that both motorists and pedestrians adopt standardized rules for traffic operation and abide by them, if the mortality toll is to be lowered.

JUST FOLKS

Edgar A. Guest

THE PET HUSBAND

I hear his praises sounded, by his virtues I am hounded. He's a model of perfection I am told. On his conduct with the ladies not a single touch of shade is. He is neither over timid nor too bold. To his wife he's so devoted, but so often is he quoted That I fear some day in anger I shall strike. And do something most alarming to that snug and bland Prince Charming. The husband that she wishes I were like.

I'm a careless sort of slattern, he's a model and a pattern. He never says a word he shouldn't say. He doesn't keep her shaving when he's finished with his shaving. He always puts his toilet stuff away. He is generous with his money, and his speech is sweet as honey.

And from day to day he's pointed out to me By the queen of our dominion as just what, in her opinion, The perfect husband really ought to be.

I've grown weary of the sample and this marvelous example. For I've learned he chews tobacco, which I don't.

And I'd like to draw attention to some faults which I could mention.

But she never would believe me, so I won't.

Oh, I've learned by observation I dwell not in isolation.

This is common to all forms of married life,

In each house there's ever lurking a pet husband smugly smirking.

But some other woman always is his wife.

He's a careless sort of slattern, he's a model and a pattern.

He never says a word he shouldn't say.

He doesn't keep her shaving when he's finished with his shaving.

He always puts his toilet stuff away.

He is generous with his money, and his speech is sweet as honey.

Today's Talks

All the books in the world about the stars could not arouse nor touch the heart as one single night spent under the rich and resplendent sky.

For hours I have sat or thrown my body against the soft dirt of the earth and looked into the still and blinking eyes of the heavens. I have felt all mankind brought near to me, and wished happiness for every creature under the serene and soothed influence of this incomparable of all sights.

When I look into the face of the night with its jeweled pathways, I do not doubt but that there is a God up there somewhere. I wouldn't argue it for a minute.

And then when I see a sweet and simple act of unselfish service rendered in everyday life, I am convinced that God doesn't stay up there where it is so lovely, but likes to be where folks are and where He is needed when those who love Him are remebered that you do not touch a life want to talk things over.

Health Hints by the Father of Physical Culture

Just as life is impossible without vitalized blood, so is health impossible without blood that possesses necessary elements for health. And it follows just as logically that one's vitality will be in exact ratio to the quality of his blood.

All of the tissues of our flesh and bones are made up of infinitely small cells—so small, in fact, that hundreds of them if massed would be invisible across the table. Each cell is born, lives and dies by itself. As fast as a cell dies—a new cell is supplied to take its place.

Exercise, even of the slightest, such as opening or closing the hand, uses up the energy material stored up in cells. Any exercise, or even thinking, causes the death of some cells, and Nature immediately supplies new cells to take the place of those that are dead. One of the important benefits of bodily exercise is that it causes the destruction or death of many all-but-exhausted cells, which in turn, are replaced by cells that are full of life—vitality.

But the cells die, too, in a body that is actually without motion, in a body whose brain is in a state of complete lethargy. The only difference is that in the inactive body the cells do not die as soon as they should, nor are the new cells by which they are replaced as healthy as they should be.

All of this repair work in the body is done by the blood. That fluid carries to all of the tissues of the body the fresh matter that is to build up new, vitalized cells in the place of those that are dying. This repair material is secreted from the food that is digested in the stomach and in the intestines. Hence the need of the most nourishing of foods. Improper food furnishes but poor repair material. That which goes into the stomach and is digested becomes the actual, living body. In this connection I cannot but refer once more to the value of adopting, if not wholly, then partly an uncooked or natural diet. Cooking destroys to a great extent, and sometimes entirely, the cell-life of the food intended to nourish the body. It is reasonable then that this devitalized or dead cell matter will never furnish material of a suitable kind for building up or even repairing the body.

"CAP" STUBBS—Mom Oughta Keep Her Word!

NEW OSBORN DESTINED TO BECOME CENTER OF CEMENT INDUSTRY AND AVIATION IS WORD

"New Osborn is destined to become both the center of the cement industry of the United States and the aviation center of the world." This is what enthusiastic residents of the new town say.

Transformed from farm land into a fast growing village within the space of several years, New Osborn is gaining recognition in the industrial and aeronautical field they claim.

Two large cement companies the Wahash Portland and the Southwestern Portland have millions of dollars invested on the rim of New Osborn in the shape of large plants being constructed on land containing enough lime rock to last 100 years or more. These plants are the basis for the industrial prediction.

With an output at the start of 3,000 barrels a day, the Southwestern will be the first to be completed and will probably begin operation in the early part of May. Later, with more adequate facilities, this capacity will be boosted to 4,500 barrels a day until after June an output of 6,000 barrels will be normal, it has been declared.

Each plant is large with slight difference in size and their presence should give added impetus to the building boom that has taken hold of the community as yet in a small way. Both companies will obtain their rock from identical strata in the lime hills back of the village.

Combined payrolls of the two companies will be nearly $80,000 a month which will run the yearly wages to approximately a million dollars a year, it is said.

Satisfaction over progress shown in the construction of his plant has been expressed by C. Leonhardt, Los Angeles, president of the Southwestern, who is making daily visits to the scene of future operations. The Southwestern has other plants in Texas and California.

Temporary buildings have been erected by the Wabash people whose plant is but yet in its infancy compared with the construction work on the sister concern which is almost completed. Ground has been broken, construction towers built and a road bed cut which will later be filled with concrete to make a beautiful one and one-fourth mile road to the plant.

Both companies are of about equal strength this means that they will represent a capital investment of nearly $3,000,000 each when they are finished.

The two railroads, the Big Four and the re-located Erie, will give the companies easy shipping facilities and a train load of cars can be shipped from the plants in daily orders which mean shipping 15,000 barrels every twenty-four hours.

Other millions have also been invested in the immediate vicinity of Osborn.

Nearly $5,000,000 will be expended by the United States government in relocating McCook Field and with Wright Field located nearby, it will constitute undoubtedly the largest aviation center in the world residents say.

RESERVES WIN PRACTICE GAME SUNDAY AT WASHINGTON PARK; RECRUITS WORKED OUT

BY L. J. WONES

The Xenia Reserve baseball team ushered in the 1925 season Sunday afternoon by defeating Zimmerman at Washington Park by an 8 to 0 score in a weather loosely played game.

The Reserves showed nice form and played excellent ball both in the field and at the bat. They collected six hits during the melee while but one error was made. Captain "Jap" Ritter gave everyone that was out for the team a chance and all showed up well.

Two twirlers were used by the locals, Cyphers starting the game and going five full rounds. During this time he permitted but four hits, these coming in the first three innings. His support was good and he fanned seven and had good control throughout.

McDonnell went to the hill in the sixth and finished the game in nice shape. The Zimmerman lads could do nothing with Willie's benders and the result was that they did not get a safe blow off him. He fanned five and issued one walk. Of the eight runs garnered by the Reserves only two of them were earned, as errors only gave them the other six.

Zimmerman presented a well balanced club that fought hard all the way. They made some costly errors while they could not do much with either of the local twirlers and this explains why they finished on the short end.

Things looked bad for the locals in the first round when C. Johnson singled and went to second when McConnell hit safely through second. Blake flied to Ritter who pegged to Randall catching Johnson off third. D. Cyphers fanned for the third out.

The locals then got busy and E. Leahy, lead off man, was given a free ticket to first. Cain laid a nice one down in the direction of the pitcher who fumbled and both runners were safe. Leahy stole third and Cain went down on the next pitched ball. McConnell's pen to second was low and the ball bounded to the outfield. Leahy scoring while Cain took third. Ritter singled sharply to right center scoring Cain. Randall bounded to D. Cyphers who failed to force Ritter at second. Cox forced Randall at second while Ritter went to third on the out. Fuller flied to deep center and Ritter scored after the catch. C. Johnson kicked F. Leahy's grounder and Cox scored. Durnbaugh fouled to Dickey for the last out.

The Reserves added another run in the second when Cyphers tripped to left and scored on Cain's infield out. D. Cyphers got the side in order in the third, fourth and fifth. Fuller led off with a single in the sixth but was caught stealing. F. Leahy fanned and Durnbaugh popped to Johnson.

McDonnell reached first safely in the seventh when C. Johnson fumbled his grounder. E. Leahy doubled to left scoring McDonnell but Leahy was thrown out at third trying to stretch the hit into a triple. Toland grounded to C. Johnson and Satterwaite rolled to D. Cyphers. The locals annexed two more for good measure in the eighth. Randall bounced to C. Johnson for the first out. Borden rolled to Bart who threw wild to first and Borden took second on the overthrow. Milburn grounded out and Borden advanced to third on the out. P. Fuller dumped one back of short that C. Johnson failed to get after a hard run. Borden scoring on the scratch single. Durnbaugh singled to deep left scoring P. Fuller with the last run of the game. McDonnell flied to Johnson ending the rally.

The Reserves will play the Hamilton Clarks next Sunday at Washington Park.

Brickle's "5" of the Xenia Bowling League lost a match game to the Coca-Cola team of the Dayton Royal League Saturday night here by sixty-two pins. Xenia had the edge on the visitors in the first two games but the Dayton five, becoming better acquainted with the strange alleys, collected a sufficient number of pins to overcome the lead in the last game.

MILLINERY STORE REPORTED ROBBED

Burglars gained entrance to Mrs. L. H. Finney millinery store, in the Steele Building some time between 6:30 and 9 o'clock Thursday night and escaped with $8 in cash from the cash drawer, it was reported at Police headquarters late Friday. A large sum of money was overlooked.

The thief or thieves entered the store through the skylight presumably using a rope, and left the building by a side door which he or they left open.

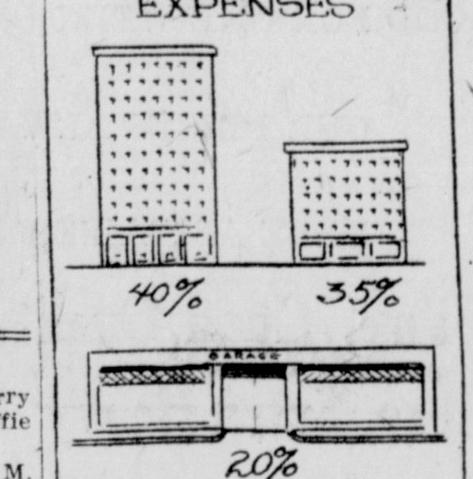

Charles Phillips, merchant policeman, discovered the open door on his nightly rounds about 9 o'clock, and investigated and found the store had been entered.

Patrolman Charles Thompson sent to investigate, found no clues.

BROADCAST BY STATION WONES

Both the National and American Leagues will swing into action Tuesday. St. Louis will engage Cincinnati in a four game series at Redland field. Pittsburgh will take on the Chicago Cubs in a four game series and the New York Giants will journey to Beantown and play the Braves while Philadelphia will help the Brooklyn Dodgers open up. The Giants are again favored to cop the bunting in the senior circuit while Pittsburgh and Brooklyn are also looked on as formidable contenders for the top position. The Cubs are crippled quite a bit on account of the injury to Rabbit Maranville, star second sacker, who will not don a suit for a month or so at least. Washington, the world's champions, Detroit and the New York Yanks stand out in the junior loop as the chief contenders for the pennant. Washington was a bit lucky last season and got plenty of breaks and fortune may not be so kind again. This spring he was expected to play an important part in lifting the Braves from the cellar but he blew up. This spring he went to the Braves' train once was. He has had spills before no doubt but the accident he met with last summer was the most serious in his career.

The Xenia Reserves baseball team looks up as a good nine—better than the one last season. "Jay" Ritter, shortstop and field captain, is running the team both in the field and at the bat. The Reserves have some good material and Ritter will have quite a time in cutting the squad. The Reserves have new grey uniforms trimmed in black and they make a nice appearance. Manager Chambliss has some first class teams booked and he intends giving the players some real good semi-pro ball.

Three world's ring champions of theistic game will risk their titles in New York rings within three months, according to Tex Rickard, the well known promoter. Mickey Walker will meet Harry Greb at the Polo Grounds about June 19. Louis Kid Kaplan, world's featherweight champ, will trade leather with Edward Mascari, European champ, about May 5, probably at Madison Square. Pancho Villa will hook up in a bout with the batamweight crown at stake July at Yankee Stadium. Walker and Greb have agreed to terms and have signed contracts. All that is necessary now is for the commission to O. K. the bout. Kaplan and Mascari will probably sign for their bout soon although Johnny Dundee is still a possibility with the champ.

Joe Genewich, who two seasons ago loomed up as a real pitching find for the Boston Braves goes into the 1925 season as a sort of puzzle or rather a fizzle. The first season Genewich was with the Braves he won thirteen games and lost fourteen for the hopeless Beantown nine. Last season he was expected to play an important part in lifting the Braves from the cellar but he blew up. This spring he went to the Braves' train camp and labored hard but still is not the twirler he was in the 1923 season. He will no doubt get the rollers unless he delivers shortly.

INJURED IN FALL DUE TO ILLNESS

After strolling through the grounds of the O. S. and S. O. Home Sunday afternoon, William H. Turner, 65, Husted, O., suffered an attack of high blood pressure and fell near the gates of the institution unconscious, where he laid until found by passers-by.

The man's nose was broken when he fell and he suffered bruises about his head. Deputy Sheriff John Baugh was called to the scene and he identified the man who was taken to the McClellan Hospital where his wounds were dressed. He was later removed to his home.

The man's condition was thought serious Monday, by Dr. L. L. Taylor, Yellow Springs, who is now attending him. It is thought that a sudden attack of vertigo, caused by high blood pressure, caused him to fall.

SAVES WOMAN'S LIFE

Bethesda, April 13—Mrs. Anna Alberts owes her life today to Stanley Brown who narrowly escaped death in saving her from being struck by a fast B. & O. freight on grade crossing here. Mrs. Alberts walked onto the crossing without noticing the approaching train. Brown, standing nearby, sprang to her assistance and snatched her from the track just as the locomotive reached the crossing. Spectators said they expected to see both of them ground to pieces under the wheels.

ROBERT C. TURNBULL DIES AT JAMESTOWN

Robert C. Turnbull, 60, prominent Jamestown grocer, died at his home there Sunday morning at 8 o'clock. Death was due to heart failure, super-induced by a stroke of paralysis suffered four months ago, the second in eight months.

Mr. Turnbull was born on a farm near Jamestown but had been a leading grocer in the village for twenty-five years. Until four years ago he was junior partner with C. H. Jenkins under the firm name of Jenkins and Turnbull and at the death of his partner, he acquired the full interest.

Always public spirited, Mr. Turnbull took considerable interest in civic affairs and was for many years a member of the board of education. He was a life long member of the United Presbyterian Church of Jamestown. Surviving is his widow and three children by his first wife. They are: Mrs. Graham Torley, Lansing, Mich., and the Misses Anna and Ruth Turnbull at home. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Clark Bickett, of near Xenia and three brothers, Samuel, Ora and Joseph of near Jamestown.

Funeral services will be held at the home Tuesday afternoon at 10 o'clock with burial in the Jamestown Cemetery.

Private funeral services will be held at the home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with interment at Woodland Cemetery. Friends may call at the home between 6 and 9 o'clock Monday evening.
